SCHOLARSHIP ratings focused a great deal of attention on Southwest this year. When a survey was made of schools turning out National Merit Finalists, Southwest was rated one of the top thirty-eight high schools in the nation. Publicity in many national magazines and newspapers, such as this illustration from Newsweek, resulted in a tide of letters to the school office requesting information on curriculum and teaching methods. Southwest, the only school in Missouri to receive this distinction, has thus been officially recognized for its perennial crop of outstanding students.

The Fame of Southwest...

LEADERSHIP abilities of Southwest students have often come to the front with prominent offices, but seldom have we been so well represented as by these outstanding Indians, who hold the three most important high school offices in Kansas City. Student Council President Dick Menn has served this year as President of the All-City Student Council and City Hall Day's Missouri Governor. Cadet Colonel Carl Remley is student commander of all the city's R.O.T.C. units. We also had the President of the All-City Red Cross in the person of Bob Davenport. We are proud to add these three to a long line of capable Southwest leaders.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION—With a membership of 2,235, which includes 79% of the parents and 100% of the teachers, the Southwest PTA is the largest in the state of Missouri. The officers, pictured here, are part of the executive board of fifty-five who keep the community informed of the interests, activities, and needs of the school.

THE HALL OF FAME honors former Southwest students who have achieved distinction in their fields of service. Below, Diane Coen, daughter of a Hall of Fame member, inspects the familiar row of pictures by the library door. The following persons have received this honor: Carl Alendoerfer '26—Rhodes Scholar; W. F. W. LAWRENCE CANNON
Principal

Southwest High School's fine reputation has been built by the excellent record of its graduates in college, in the professions, and in business and industry. A list of successful alumni reads like the "Who's Who in America." School and college officials all over America have good reason to respect the excellent work done in our classrooms.

To a large degree, the fame of Southwest has been earned by the students and teachers who have preceded us. It is our duty to maintain for our school the high level set by others. The satisfaction of belonging, the pleasure of fine fellowship, and the prestige connected with membership in a proud institution are a few of the benefits derived from the school's national standing.

We must steadfastly resolve to prove ourselves worthy of such a great educational heritage.

The Fame of Southwest

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS—STANDING: Bruce Ennis, John Lucas. SEATED: Anne Barton, Dick Hall, Penny Golden, Frances Fullerton, Parker Myers.

The Senior Class

President	Dick Hall
Vice-President	Parker Myers
Secretary	Penny Golden
Treasurer	John Lucas

Publicity Chairman	Bruce Ennis
Sergeant-at-Arms	Francis Fullerton
Sponsor	Mr. Samuel P. Gibson

"We are the seniors; we really rate! We are the Class of '58"—these oft-repeated words are well enough applied to this year's class, which has advanced the fame of Southwest in many fields. Last summer, three Indians of the class went to Europe through Foreign Exchange and Boy Scout programs. The heads of the All-City Student Council, Red Cross, and ROTC are members of this class. Twelve held governmental posts in the annual City Hall Day. A great number of the seniors have earned honor ratings in the state music contests. In athletics, the class has also ranked high, with an abundance of All-City and All-District ratings. Several of the boys were on a state championship track team for the second consecutive year. This class of four hundred has maintained a Southwest tradition of high scholastic rating in various national standardized tests. Nine seniors received Certificates of Merit for high scores in the National Merit Scholarship program. Our five years at Southwest have been both enjoyable and profitable, and we only hope that we may leave the school even greater than we found it. We look forward to the future, and yet we regret that we must leave. We shall always be proud to say that we are graduates of Southwest.

Every fall the senior class has the privilege of selecting twenty whom they consider the most capable leaders to act as their representatives on the Senior Business Committee. The members of the committee are organized into eight sub-committees, and from their number are elected the class officers. While it is an honor, committee membership also entails a great amount of work, for this group is responsible for the sale of senior play tickets, the arrangements for the Junior-Senior Prom, the Baccalaureate service, the class gift to the school, and much of the planning for that long-awaited commencement ceremony.

Joann Watkins was the only Southwest student to be able to participate in the American Field Service program last summer. She lived in Esch-sur-Alzette, Luxembourg, with the Crescenini family, who owned a macaroni and spaghetti factory. With her foreign parents, brother Jean Paul, and sister Mickey, Joann also visited Holland, Belgium, Germany, France, Switzerland, and Italy. The occasion of this picture was Joann's seventeenth birthday, apparently being celebrated American style. Joann returned with an abundance of souvenirs, pictures, and pleasant memories of her experiences abroad.

Two Foreign Exchange Students—a SW First

Four years ago Southwest became the first Kansas City high school to be host to a foreign exchange student. Before this year there had been three of these students—from France, Germany, and New Zealand—who had joined our senior classes and made lasting friendships. This year, Southwest became the first school to bring two students, Kirsten (Kiki) Andersen from Oslo, Norway, and Angelo Privitera from northern Italy. Kiki has made her home with the family of Nelani Midgley and Angelo with that of Bob Hanna. In fulfillment of their mission to help increase international understanding, the two have been active in school affairs. Besides participating in assemblies and speaking to various outside organizations, Kiki performed in the Pirates of Penzance, and Angelo delighted the audience with the vivid interpretation of his role in the senior play. We hope that their stay here in the states and at Southwest has been as enjoyable and profitable for them as it has been for us.

The purpose of the Senior Ballot is to give the seniors a chance to recognize those of their classmates whom they consider outstanding in various respects. It might be that some of the best liked or best known persons in the class are not Student Council, Senior Class, or other high officers, and consequently may not get the credit to which they are entitled. Through this ballot, the seniors can recognize these as well as prominent class leaders by selecting the boy and girl they think most deserving for each of the twelve categories. Even then, several who perhaps should be listed are not, as the balloting is inevitably very close for many of the coveted spots. But to the victors goes the credit, and for these pictured here the plurality of the seniors have cast their votes.

Junior Business Committee

Chairman		Dave Foster
Vice-Chairman		Jim Hopkins
Secretary-Treasurer		Sherrie Baker
Sponsor		Mr. Robert B. Armour

The Junior Business Committee, which was organized in 1955, serves as a "proving ground" for potential senior leaders of the next year, and provides leadership experience and honor for outstanding juniors. The committee is composed of twelve members elected by their classmates, and works in co-operation with the Senior Business Committee. The primary function of the group is to help in the planning and preparation of the Junior-Senior Prom in May. This year's members have also had the opportunity to select the design for their own class rings.

A tape recorder, part of the audio-visual equipment which was the gift of the class of '57, is a new medium used in many classes for speech activities.

The National Honor Society elected to membership sixty students, comprising the upper fifteen per cent of the senior class according to their rank in scholarship. Besides scholarship, character, leadership, and service are considered. Membership in other societies indicates interest and ability in special fields, but election to NHS is the culmination of achievement throughout the years of high school life. A beautiful initiation ceremony, held during the first assembly in May, provides inspiration to underclassmen who aspire to achieve the highest honor the school can bestow.

A. B. McDONALD CHAPTER

New members enjoy refreshments after initiation.

Members of Quill and Scroll, an international organization for students of high school journalism, are chosen from Southwest's publication staffs, the Sachem and the Trail. Columnists, photographers, and artists, as well as editors and business managers, must make outstanding contributions to the work of the yearbook or the newspaper in order to be eligible. Membership keys were presented at the initiation ceremony, held on May 6.

NAHS, founded by Miss Flora A. Wright in 1933, acquired a new sponsor, Miss Ruth M. Beck, after Miss Wright's retirement in January. Through the sale of individual art projects, funds were raised for the annual scholarship award. Plans were made for a mural in the music room. Activities were climaxed by the initiation ceremony in May.

Council Speaks for the Students

Members of the Student Council, through the efforts of various committees, carried on many projects for the welfare of the school. Some of these were the purchase of a new Student Affairs bulletin board, the installation of a light and shelves in the Lost and Found room, and provision of an unabridged dictionary in the study hall. In April, shares printed to resemble actual stocks were sold in order to continue the foreign exchange program next year. The greatest improvement in the council was the adoption of a new and more democratic system for choosing candidates for office.

Members of the Junior Red Cross Council have had a busy year owing to their many altruistic activities. As their major project they sent three goodwill chests overseas, along with several Red Cross albums. Additional time has been consumed in the collection of books for the Ruskin Heights High School library destroyed by last year's tornado, the annual Red Cross fund-raising campaign, and the purchase of a Red Cross flag. A memorable event was the presentation of a plaque to Miss Mary Jackson, under whose sponsorship the Southwest chapter became one of the most outstanding in the city.

The responsibility of writing the Literary Society Tea invitations fell to Athena this year. In honor of the new members, they held an initiation ceremony followed by a pot-luck dinner. The Athenians had a guest speaker on orals and another on written events. In addition to their other programs, they had a panel discussion on "Going Steady," which although not related to literary pursuits was very interesting.

Delphi

Profitable features of this year's meetings were the many informative experiences shared by all the members with the club's first foreign exchange member, Kiki Andersen. A boost to the society's spirit was given by the adoption of a key to be worn by each Delphian in the succeeding years to signify membership. Rewarding indeed was the hard work which resulted in Delphi's sharing of the four club tie for second place.

Panel members invoke the fifth amendment.

Last fall Mr. Wilson stepped into the Excelsior sponsor's shoes, which had been filled by Mr. Overman since the founding of the club. Records of famous speeches, panel discussions on topics of current interest, debates on controversial subjects, and of course a party or two were just a few of the many activities which occupied the Excelsior agenda. It was indeed a triumphant occasion when Excelsior captured the coveted cup.

The Omega members took part in the inter-society tea of which their sponsor Miss Varney was chairman. Programs including panel discussion, reading of original works by members, and a guest who spoke on the preparation and delivery of oral events were arranged to further their goal of literary achievement. As one of the clubs sharing in the second place tie in the contest, the Omegas felt amply rewarded for their work.

Sappho planned the program for the Literary Tea. Social events included an initiation dinner and their traditional Christmas party, highlighted by refreshments and singing. As usual, a new members' contest was held to find winners in short story, poetry, and essay. A panel discussion by three of the members took place late in the first semester. As the final activity of the year, Sappho's underclassmen planned a luncheon for the seniors.

The presence of a mascot was an innovation at the Sesame meetings. The stuffed floppy-eared puppy, perched atop Mrs. Norris's desk, helped to create an enthusiastic spirit. Traditional events were the Christmas party for members and alumnae and a "victory" celebration after being one of the clubs to tie for second place in the inter-society contest.

Summus initiates in royal fashion at the Majestic.

Summus began something new among the societies with a pledge-in dinner at the Majestic Steak House. Another enjoyable occasion was the Christmas party at the YMCA with movies, refreshments, and games. Thalian

All of the Southwest Literary Societies participate in the Christmas collection for the needy.

Though the Thalias concerned themselves chiefly with efforts to achieve literary success, they found time for entertainment such as participation in the inter-society tea and for charitable projects, shared with other societies, such as the Salvation Army food and clothing collection. An occasion that promoted fun and friendliness was the spaghetti dinner given for the initiates.

A glorious new treasure in the Veda hideout has been a flower-filled silver cup, won in the contest last spring. An interesting and provocative speech on the writing and beauty of poetry was given by former Southwest teacher Miss Susan McClelland. With energy and spirit the girls launched an early campaign to repeat their medal-winning performance. The results of the contest were very close, and Veda lost the cup to Excelsior by only one point.

"Z-A" prides itself on its unique past as winner of more contests by far than any other society. The boys believe that serving refreshments at every meeting is a great morale booster. The variety of programs preliminary to contest preparation included a debate on nuclear testing. Study of the different events by club members and a question period with Mr. Western steered the Zend-Avestans in writing their contest entries.

The purpose of the Engineers Club is to give prospective members an opportunity to become acquainted with the many phases of the profession. Meetings of the club feature speakers, movies of a scientific nature, and field trips, which this year included Sheffield Steel, the Westinghouse jet engine plant, and the Spencer Chemical research laboratories. Through these activities the members have a chance to observe different types of engineering in action.

In Hestia, a homemaking club, all of the programs relate to topics concerning home management. In addition, the members worked on an outside project, which was the making of scrapbooks for the children at the Cerebral Palsy Center. The last big event of the year was a picnic planned by the underclass members in honor of the seniors in the club.

The FTA members attended the annual city-wide meeting at Kansas City University sponsored by the Teachers Now Training group. Other programs featured several of our faculty who gave interesting speeches on the various fields and rewards of teaching. The last activity of the year was a dinner to raise money for their scholarship fund, which is awarded at the end of each year to the senior who has done the most for the club during her membership.

The most recently established and perhaps the most interesting service committee is the Audio-Visual Staff, under the supervision of Mr. J. R. Manly. Starting at 7:30 a. m., two or more students are on duty each hour, checking out movie projectors, films, record players, and tape recorders to various classes. The staff is trained to use and service all the equipment.

Other committees are composed of students who help in the office, the health center, the treasurer's office, and the cafeteria. These unsung heroes, who work voluntarily and faithfully, deserve much praise and appreciation for their service to the school.

Alice and Tony—after the Sycamores and the Kirbys had worked out a few problems.

The senior play of 1958 was a hilarious version of "You Can't Take It With You." Selected from over fifty seniors who tried out, the cast spent long hours in rehearsal under the direction of Mr. Leonard Western. The art and production staffs deserve credit for an outstanding job of staging, as do the individual members of the cast for an unusually polished job of acting. Through the sale of tickets the play made possible the senior gift, but at the same time the diverse antics of the Sycamore family provided an amusing evening of entertainment.

Contest Close for Coveted Cup

First Place: Excelsior

Second Place: Delphi, Omega, Sesame, Veda

The thirty-first Southwest inter-society literary contest was held on Thursday, April 17. The usual spirited banquet, this year at the Country Club Christian Church, was climaxed by the tricky exit of the Zend-Avestans. After presentation of the oral events, the clubs sang in turn as the baton was passed among the presidents, each with plenty of interference from the other societies. To those who kept score as the results were read by Mr. Cannon, it soon became obvious that the standings would be close. The Excelsiors leaped in jubilation at the announcement that, with five points, the cup was theirs. Four societies tied for second place with four points each. The vanquished left silently after extending hearty congratulations to the victors.

Zorro puts in a surprise appearance during an assembly advertisement to save Sachem notebooks from bandidos. Later he graciously consents to return the material—the result: Sachem sales reach a new high and the book comes out on schedule.

Work on the Sachem begins each fall with basic planning and continues until the final deadline is met about May first. Throughout the year many pictures are processed and hundreds of sheets of copy are written and edited. More working hours are spent on organization and the inevitable business matters that need attention. Essential to the progress of the book was the work of Phil Stewart, editor-in-chief, who planned the overall theme, prepared material for the printer, and in general co-ordinated the activities of the staff.

To capture the atmosphere of Southwest and give an impression that would have meaning and sentiment for two thousand students was the task faced by the staff. The Sachem has in this respect assumed the role of interpreter as well as recorder.

"Oh, thank you, Miss Johnston! We'd love to spend the weekend doing Sachem work," exclaim the junior assistants.

A small ensemble practices under the spots.

The fame of Southwest's music department is state-wide. To attribute this reputation to a few specific qualities would be a mistake, for it is due to many factors and has been acquired only over a period of years. Some of these factors, but certainly not all of them, are the variety and fine quality of performances, consistently high ratings in state music contests, and the enthusiasm and outstanding ability of both students and directors.

The backbone of the vocal music department is the Concert Choir. Auditioning each spring, the members of the Choir comprise a select group of Southwest's best vocal talent. Again this year the Choir's activities were on a city-wide basis with appearances in the All-City Talent Show, the City Choir Festival, on radio and television, and for churches in the community. Excellent performances were also given in the Redskin Revels, the Christmas Pageant, the Pirates of Penzance, and the Spring Concert. Presenting assembly and P.T.A. programs and lending a dignified air to the Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises completed the activities of a busy year of accomplishment.

Male Chorus

A comparatively new addition to the Southwest Music Department is the Male Chorus. Its popularity among the masculine set is shown by the number of boys who attend the 7:50 rehearsals on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. In addition to having fun, the group has made a unique contribution to the school through its outstanding performances in the Redskin Revels, the Christmas Vesper Service and the Pirates of Penzance. Representing Southwest in the All-City Talent Show, the Male Chorus culminated its activities for the year with its now famous rendition of "Day-O."

"Pirates" Climax Musical Year

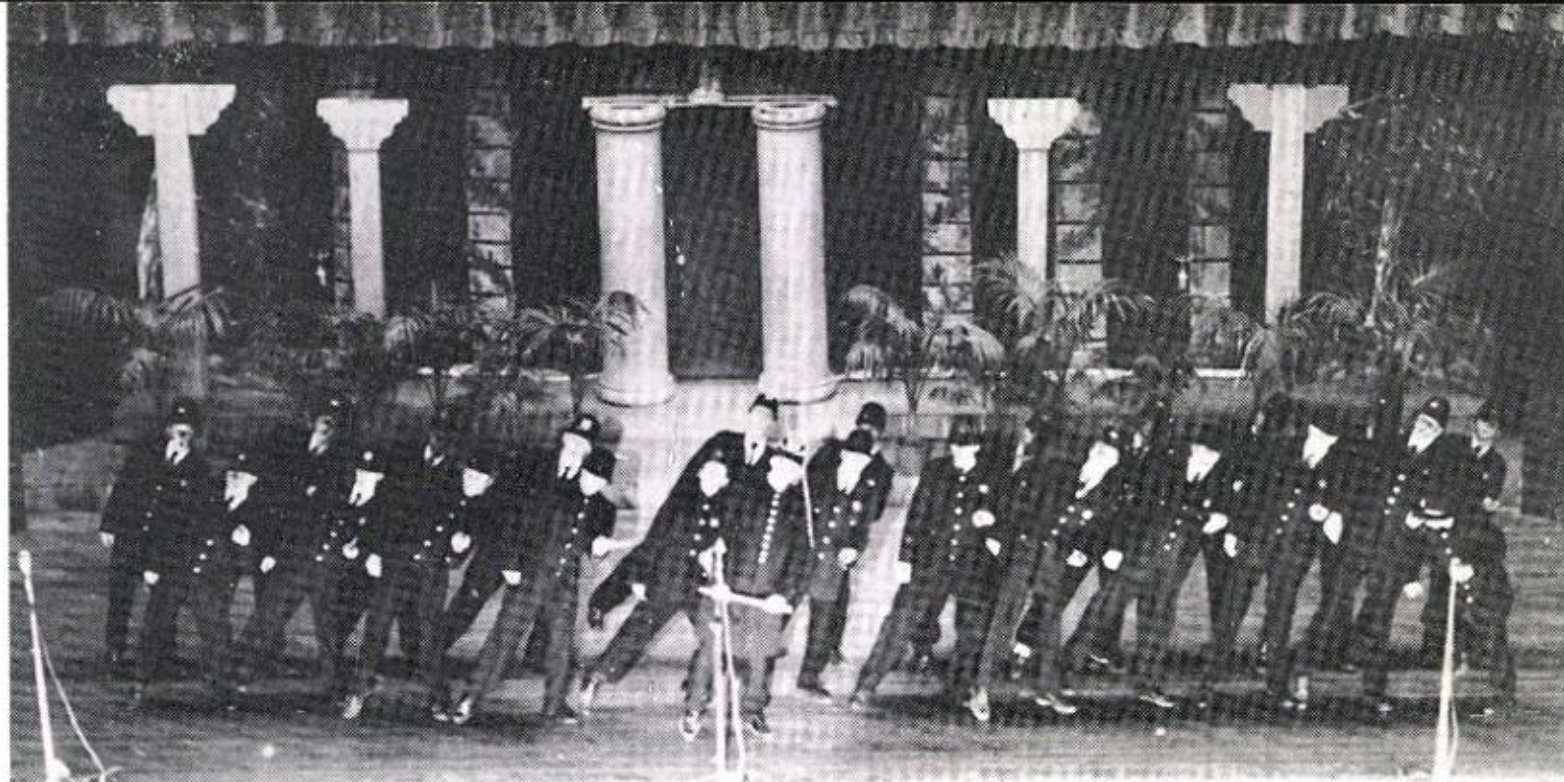

Again this year Gilbert and Sullivan returned to the Southwest stage—this time with Pirates of Penzance, one of their more difficult operettas. Work began early in January with the selection of the script and try-outs for leads. Throughout the month of February the Concert Choir, the Male Chorus, and the Girls' Choir spent long hours in rehearsal while the art and production staffs prepared the elaborate scenery and effective staging. Special credit must be given to the accomplished work done by the orchestra and by the individual soloists. The loyalty and hard work of the cast resulted in two outstanding performances.

"We've Got the Pep" - Cheerleaders

At football and basketball games the symbol of Southwest school spirit and team support is embodied in the cheerleaders, who seem tireless in their enthusiasm. Probably the most loyal of the Southwest Indians, these girls are selected each spring. Working closely with the Pep Club, they do much to encourage interest in athletics. It is hard to realize the long hours they spend practicing new cheers and routines. Whether in assemblies, at after-school pep rallies, or at an important game, the cheerleaders have the difficult, often almost impossible task of causing the student body to respond with an enthusiasm matching their own vigorous exuberance.

The able coaching of Mr. George Ewing and the ability of the Southwest athletes brought an admirable record to the school last spring. Their undefeated string of victories included the State Indoor, the City Championship, and the State Outdoor. Long remembered will be the performance of Jim Baker, who set a state record in the quarter mile. His speed also raked in points in the dashes. Stuart Paterson was a consistent point winner in the broad jump and the track events. Bill Fuller's distance running was a high point of the city meet. In the hurdles Parker Meyers was a point winner in many important meets. Hard work and diligent training paid off in an abundance of trophies, fitting tributes to the finest track team in the history of the school.

Tribe Gridders Edged in League Bid

"Hello, dear, I'll be home in an hour." Coach Nurski tries the new field telephone system.

The Indian gridders fought and fumbled their way through a disappointing season. The 5-4 record, however, does not describe the ability and spirit of the athletes. They were larger, faster, and better by far than most of their opponents, but flu casualties and a series of fumbles and unfortunate mistakes cost the tribe what might have been their best season in years. With a mere handful of the squad in good health, the team faced an inspired Paseo and dropped its opener 19-7. In league play, a series of second-half finishes brought the warriors within forty-four seconds of the league championship. Following this heart-breaking defeat, the tribe bounced back to crush its cross-town rivals, Northeast, 20-6. After another defeat at the hands of a spirited Southeast, the squad faced its annual battle with Shawnee-Mission. Although the team ran up an early lead of 30-6, a combination of injuries and discouragement resulted in another loss.

Eleven Receive All-Star Ratings

The tribe gridders were paced by a group of great individual stars. Despite a disappointing record, eleven men received All-City ratings, four were placed on the All-District teams, and one on the second All-State unit. The great size and speed of the warriors made them formidable opponents to all comers. Center Jay Robertson, perhaps the most outstanding football player at Southwest in many years, was barely shaded off the first All-State team. On the All-District teams were Jay Robertson, Dick Hall, Jack Jackson, and Steve Wohlert. These four as well as Bill Miller, George Mansfield, Jack Shipman, Tom Fallman, Roger Wohlert, Parker Myers, and Bill Eaglstein were elected to All-City honors.

It was a bitter cold night. The two teams had fought fiercely throughout the game, the lead changing hands several times. Now, with forty-four seconds remaining to be played, a Southwest victory seemed almost certain. The Indians had built a four point lead with their crunching ground attack. It was the blue clad Central Eagles who had possession of the ball, however, and their passes had been clicking for long yardage throughout the season. The quarterback faded back to pass again. As the ball glided through the air, the oppressive silence of the stands fell like a blanket upon the gridiron. A thousand dismayed spectators watched as the pigskin found its way between the defenders into the eager hands of the Central end, who dropped to his knees three yards over the goal line. Thus ended the Tribe's bid for the Interscholastic League Championship.

First Junior Varsity Season Is Successful

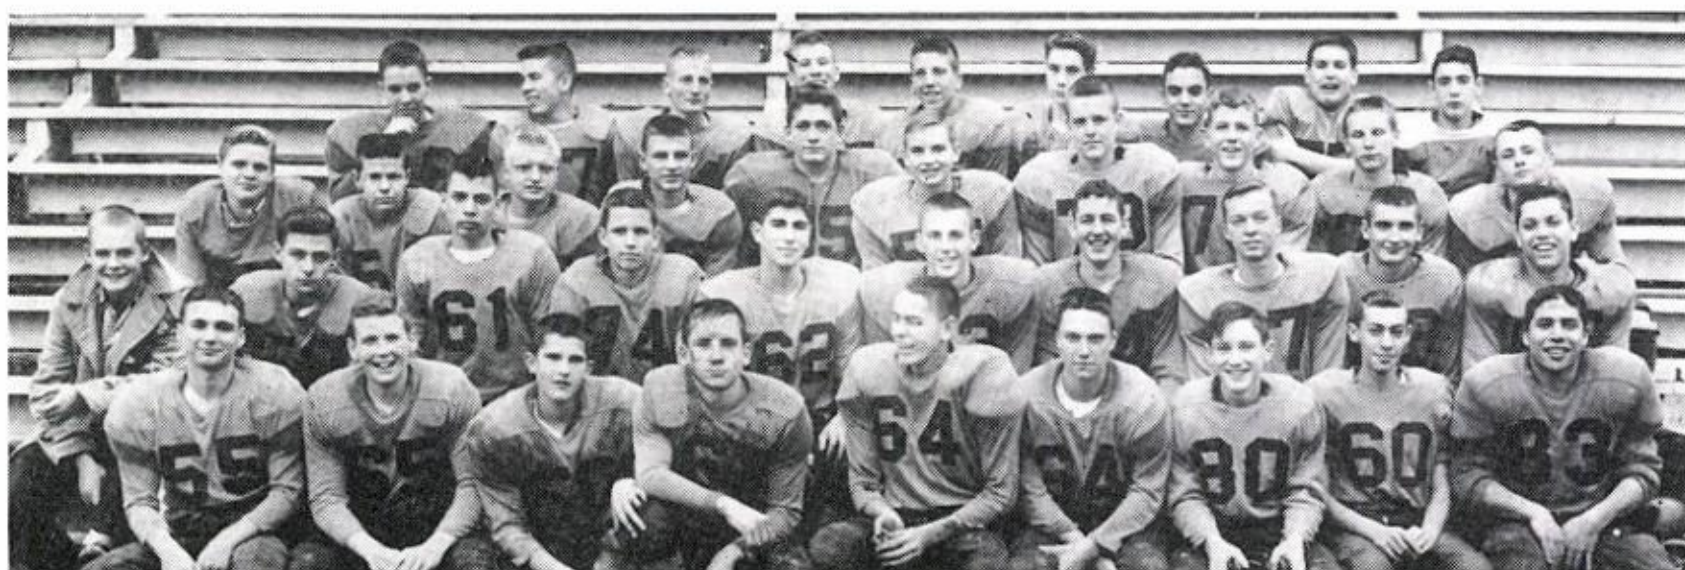

During the 1957 season, the new Junior Varsity plan was launched to give more boys an opportunity to share in the benefits of organized football. The initial season was highly successful, the team compiling a 4-1 record. They handed shellackings to Paseo, Raytown, Shawnee-Mission, and North Kansas City. In the season finale, however, they suffered a 27-0 loss in a rematch with Northtown. Under the able guidance of Coach Robinson, the J. V. showed such marked improvement that its athletes are sure to be assets to the varsity next year. It is hoped that this plan will be the beginning of an improved athletic system at Southwest.

B-Team Splits Season; Wins 4 of 8

This year's braves were forced to face numerous obstacles. The league's only sophomore team, they were plagued by flu, costly mistakes, and loss of spirit. Despite all their troubles they displayed much ability, obtaining a 4-4 record. Under the guidance of Coach Harryman, the boys gained valuable experience to prepare them for varsity work. Their constant improvement indicates strong prospects for the varsity of 1959.

Cagers Place Half-Way Down

A three-way tie for fourth place in the Interscholastic League was the reward for this year's cagers. The tribe's season opened with a third place trophy in the North Kansas City tournament and a fourth in the Southeast tourney.

The league campaign followed the pattern of the rest of the season, the team winning one and losing the next. Victories over East, Westport, Manual, and Van Horn were high points of league play. An impressive victory over powerful Pem-Day demonstrated the team's ability.

The outstanding performances of Jim Baker, Bill Munro, and Norman Majors won berths on the All-City teams, with Baker being elected to All-District and Honorable Mention All-State.

The fete honored the varsity football squad, in recognition of their efforts on the gridiron.

During the past thirty-one years the Southwest battalions have compiled an enviable record, both as individuals and as units. The battalion has almost always placed high in the Federal inspections, which have been held annually since 1931. At the field day, Southwest has scored a host of firsts in the competitive drills. The rifle team took the city championship for the third consecutive year in 1958. Once again a Southwest cadet, Carl Remley, was honored as the city colonel. The battalion's honor guard entertained the audience at the Redskin Revels with their precision drills. For this list of accomplishments, Southwest is proud of its ROTC program and its cadets.

Battalion Staff

The Battalion Staff is responsible for the supervision of the activities for Southwest's ROTC unit. Its members are selected by the instructor on the basis of merit.

STANDING: Ed Abbott, Carl Remley, Steve Hill, Ed Kindermann, John Leonard, Howard Jacobson. SEATED: Joe Booth.

Honor Guard

The Honor Guard is the battalion's crack drill team. Their precision performance was an excellent addition to this year's Redskin Revels.

Allen Wyly, Tom Talbot, John O'Neal, David Eichenberger, Melvyn Koger, Kit Washburn, Larry Clutz, Arthur Burger, Steve Hammond, Ed Levinson, Arthur James, Rusty Hamblin, Sandy Shlyen.

Drum and Bugle Corps

The cadences of the Drum and Bugle Corps set the pace for the marching feet of the cadets.

Dennis Austinson, Rusty Hamblin, Mike Thomas, Wes Grist, John Young, John O'Dell, Bob Davidow, Myron Stevens, Ron Hatten.

Rifle Team Makes It Three Straight

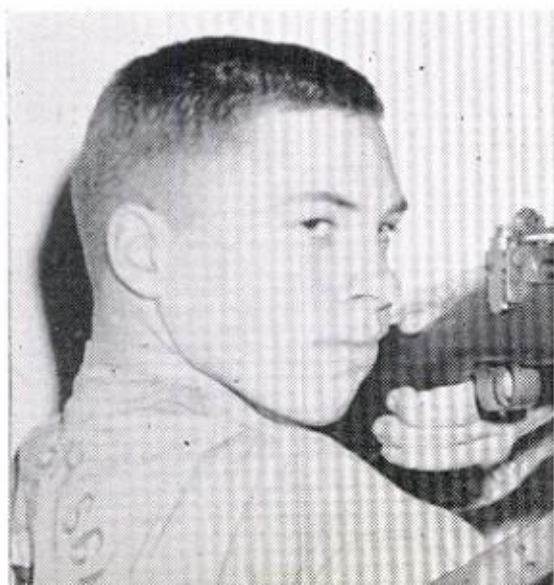

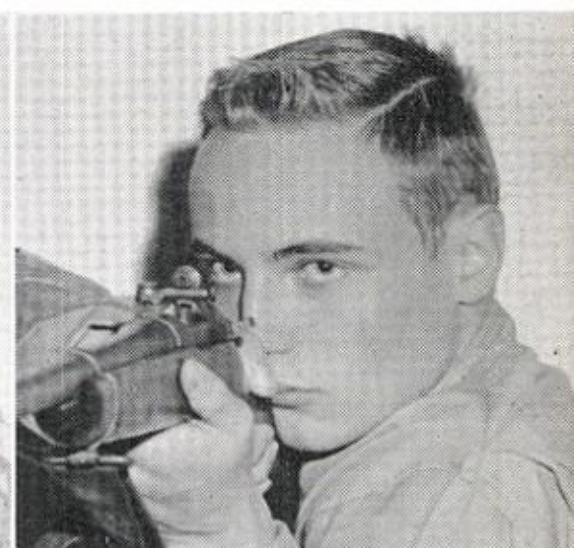

In winning its third consecutive city championship this year, Southwest's rifle team compiled a record unmatched by any school in the area. Paced by high-pointman Bruce Weeks, the tribe again went undefeated throughout the city league season, and entered the city firings as favorites. There the team scored another victory, with Allen Wyly scoring high. The ability of the Southwest sharpshooters was such that no less than four were placed on the All-City team. Thus honored were Weeks, Abbott, and the Wyly brothers.
